

LARCH STARBURST

Larch and Fir grow entwined, and burst forth into the wholeness of the nine-pointed star.

*This image stunned me, as it appeared before my eyes one fine day in early October:
a nine-pointed star! in Larch blazing against and amongst Fir, like a signal fire to the open air; to all who would see,
a message, a proclamation!*

~

*Nine ~ the sacred three, times three;
the incorruptible number of completion and eternity,
unity, and the crown of achievement.*

*Larch ~ a tree for protection and rebirth;
It is a singularly beautiful tree,
singular in that it is our only conifer that is not evergreen,
it sheds its needles every fall in a gorgeous deep golden display.*

*Fir ~ a tree of hope, fortitude and strength,
clarity, and immortality.*